Johnsen Free To Go, Says Board

Chief Of BH Schools Guaranteed $27,000

Benton Harbor School Supt. Albert C. Johnsen is free to seek other employment and the board of education can seek a new superintendent.

ALBERT C. JOHNSEN

This was a joint announcement made last night by the board and Johnsen. It releases him from his contract to get another job, but guarantees that he will get at least $27,000 next year — the salary specified in his three-year Benton Harbor contract that expires June 30, 1969.

Disclosure that the board had asked Johnsen to get another job was made by this newspaper May 3 when senior high school was closed by a walkout of teachers.

The announcement said that Johnsen will continue as superintendent until he accepts a new job or the board obtains a replacement.

JOHNSEN COMMENT
Johnsen said this morning had no comment on his future plans except to say "I will do my job to the best of my ability as long as I am here."

Johnsen's salary this year is $25,500. It will rise to $27,000 for 1968-69 the last year of his three year contract. If he finds a new job for less than that amount the board of education will make up the difference.

Johnsen, 57, became Benton Harbor superintendent in 1962. He was appointed superintendent of the consolidated Benton Harbor district in 1965.

TEXT OF ANNOUNCEMENT
Text of the announcement by the board and Johnsen:
The Benton Harbor board of education and Superintendent Albert C. Johnsen announced that they have entered an agreement modifying the superintendent's three-year contract which expires June 30, 1969. Under the new agreement the Superintendent of Schools is free to seek and accept a new employment. The school district is immediately at liberty to seek and employ a replacement as superintendent.

Until either Mr. Johnsen accepts other employment or the Board of Education obtains a replacement, Mr. Johnsen will continue to serve as superintendent. Mr. Johnsen will also assist in a mutually agreeable manner in familiarizing the new superintendent with the details

HELD AT GUNPOINT

Young Man Accused Of Obscene Calls

A 20-year-old man was held at gunpoint last night in a Lincoln township home until Berrien sheriff's officers arrived to arrest him on a charge of making obscene telephone calls.

Arrested was Larry L. Poshke, 20, of Church street, Coloma. He is alleged to have made obscene phone calls to Roxanna Mock, 26, of 1564 South Cherry drive.

Deputies said Miss Mock called police the previous day and asked what she could do about the calls. On suggestion of deputies, she set a time for the caller to visit her residence. A friend, Jim Heppner, 27, of Cedar Crest apartments, Stevensville waited with Miss Mock for the caller to arrive officers said.

Shortly after 9 p.m., Poshke was at the door, and invited into the house. Officers said Heppner then covered Poshke with a rifle, and held him until Deputy Dave Hanner arrived,

Candidate For New Judgeship

Hughes Seeks Third Berrien Circuit Post

Julian E. Hughes, well known twin cities attorney and former probate judge of Berrien county, today announced his candidacy for the new third circuit judgeship in Berrien county.

Legislation creating the third judge's post in this county was signed into law Tuesday by Governor George Romney. Hughes is the first to announce intentions of seeking the position.

The 46-year-old lawyer is a partner in the St. Joseph law firm of Hughes, Schulz and Locke, and has practiced law in the twin cities since 1949, except for eight years on the Berrien county probate court bench.

Hughes served as probate judge from 1956 to 1964. He entered law practice here in 1949 as an associate with the firm of Seymour & Seymour, and was a partner in the firm from 1952 until his election as probate judge. He returned to private law practice with his present firm in 1964 when he voluntarily stepped down from the probate bench.

SIX-YEAR TERM
The new position on the Berrien County bench will be for a six-year term and will begin Jan. 1, 1969.

If more than two candidates seek the job on the non-partisan judicial ballot there will be a runoff in the Aug. 6 primary. The winner will be chosen in the general election Nov. 5.

Hughes, whose home is at 176 Highman Park, Benton Harbor, is a native of Crane, Mo., and was educated in the public schools at Joliet, Ill. He attended Wabash college in Crawfordsville, Ind., and received his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1949.

He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, and was commissioned as a fighter pilot as the war came to a close.

AFFILIATIONS
He is a member of the state bar association and a former vice president of the Berrien County Bar association. He formerly was a member of the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Judges association and was chairman of the Southwestern Michigan Probate Judges association in 1960-62 when Uniform Practice Rules were drafted and adopted. These rules were later adopted statewide, with minor modification.

Hughes is a member of the First Presbyterian church in Benton Harbor; a director and former chairman of the Benton Harbor branch of Goodwill Industries of Southwestern Michigan; a director of St. Joseph River Valley Mental Health clinic. He is a former director of the Twin Cities Community Service council, a former director of Handicapped Camping, Inc., and a former vice chairman of the Wabano district of the Boy Scouts.

He and his wife, the former Evelyn McLaughlin of Niles, are parents of three sons.

Student Revolution May Spread

Want To Include Working Classes

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

Leaders of the radical student group that disrupted college campuses across the country during the past year now are talking of spreading their gospel of revolution to America's working classes.

The objective, said one national officer of Students for a Democratic Society, is "an alliance between students and workers — like in France."

Carl Davidson, SDS national secretary, said as the first step an undisclosed number of SDS members are taking summer jobs in big-city factories and are moving into blue-collar neighborhoods.

"We will learn how the workers think and how they live," Davidson said. "Then we can organize."

He said draft resistance will be used as the basis for getting into a community.

BH LISTED AS 'TARGET'
An SDS publication lists Benton Harbor as one of seven target towns in the North. SDS, which claims 35,000 members on more than 200 campuses, has made similar attempts at community organizing in the past—generally without success.

As a guide for radical organizers, the SDS national office is distributing a 36-page document that suggests projects concentrate on "a distinguishable subculture in America... the poor, transitional, working class whites."

SDS DOCUMENT
The document adds: "We are talking about a large portion of the South's 40 million" (See page 17, sec. 1, col. 4)

New Pact To Be Ratified

Would Avert School Delay Like 1967

Agreement has been reached by negotiators on teaching contract terms for the faculty of Lake Michigan college for the 1968-69 school year, according to announcement by LMC President James L. Lehman.

Terms arrived at by negotiating teams for the faculty and administration will be submitted to the faculty members and the board of trustees for ratification, he said, adding that approval by both sides is expected next week.

The terms agreed to by the negotiators were not disclosed. Dr. Lehman made his announcement this morning on behalf of both negotiating teams.

A dispute over contract terms last year resulted in a strike of the faculty that delayed the opening of the academic year by five weeks. The current school year, which will end next week, is running nearly two weeks beyond normal to make up for time lost last fall.

Expected ratification by both sides before the close of the current school year would put an early end to speculation in some areas that the college might be troubled by contract problems against next year.

The dispute last year cost the college a drop in enrollment.

Negotiation sessions have been in progress for a couple of months.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD

Allegan Boy Dies In Go-Cart Crash

PLAINWELL—A seven-year-old Allegan boy died Wednesday evening when a go-cart he was driving went out of control and crashed into a mobile home on a sales lot, acquired six months ago by his father near Plainwell.

Killed was Martin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Johnson of Allegan. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Phipps hospital, Plainwell.

Allegan county sheriff's deputies, called to the scene on M-89 a half mile west of Plainwell about 6:30 p.m., said the boy had been driving the go-cart on a gravel surface, lost control and was crushed against an I-beam at the front of a mobile home. Death was attributed to a skull fracture and brain injury.

The elder Johnson operates Southwest Mobile Home Sales, Inc., at Allegan. He was reported to have acquired the Plainwell site for a branch sales office about six months ago and had just moved the mobile units onto the lot.

The body was taken to Nyberg funeral home, Allegan. Ironically, Martin's sister, Susan, 18, was a go-cart enthusiast as a girl and had won several championships in go-cart events throughout the state.

Martin was born Feb. 4, 1961, in Allegan and attended the second grade at West ward school.

Besides his parents and sisters, survivors include a grandmother Mrs. Ada Mayhugh of Parkersburg, W. Va.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, at Nyberg funeral home. The Rev. David Wright of the First Presbyterian church of Allegan will officiate. Burial will be in Poplar Hill cemetery.

Few Puffing Pot At LMC

Survey Shows Majority Against Narcotics

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

The Lake Michigan College Veterans' association today released results of a mid-May survey of 199 LMC students showing 14 per cent have used marijuana and 3 1/2 per cent have used LSD.

The survey, Project Chairman David J. Barnes said, covered 199 freshmen and sophomore men and women. LMC, a two-year college in Benton Harbor, has 2,197 part and fulltime students and 388 in apprentice training.

Dr. James Lehman, president of LMC, noted that "These results are not scientifically valid. It is kind of an opinion poll and should be treated as such."

Eighty-five per cent of the survey group said they had not used marijuana at all, 5 1/2 per cent said they used it once and 8 1/2 per cent more than once.

Ninety-six per cent said they had never used LSD, the so-called mind-expanding drug, while 1 1/2 per cent said they used it once and 2 per cent more than once.

The largest group of claimed drug users — and in the case of the LSD the only users — were young men. Of sophomore men answering the survey, for example, 7 1/2 per cent claimed to have used marijuana once and 17 1/2 per cent more than once.

Of the total survey population, however, 69 per cent felt that marijuana should not be legalized and 86 per cent felt LSD should not be legalized.

Sixty per cent felt the "excessive use" of marijuana could be harmful or fatal and 91 per cent felt the same way about LSD.

Only 13 per cent felt marijuana is a problem at LMC, while 7 per cent felt LSD is a problem there. But 36 per cent felt marijuana is a problem in Berrien county and 19 per cent felt the same way about LSD.

Most of the survey students said they personally knew someone who had used marijuana, and about a third of the

BIDS SOUGHT

Will Raze Old County Courthouse

C. Thomas Daley's urban renewal office in St. Joseph today began advertising for bids to demolish the old Berrien county courthouse in St. Joseph.

Demolition could immediately follow opening of bids on July 1, or a time following the 30-day review period that Daley's office may take.

He also will advertise somewhat later, on June 24, for the demolition of the old Barlow laundry and dry cleaning plant at Port and Main streets only a few hundred feet from the old courthouse.

Berrien county's seat of government was Berrien Springs from 1838 to 1895, when it shifted to the now-old courthouse in St. Joseph. That stone structure was used until 1966 when the new courthouse a few hundred feet away was completed.

Public Aid To Private Schools Remains Up In The Air

The U.S. Supreme Court delivered two opinions Monday which still leave dangling the touchy question of public support for private schools.

One of them seemingly approves the assistance.

In a 6-3 decision, the Court upheld a New York state statute requiring public school systems to lend textbooks to students in parochial and other private schools.

The textbook provision, said the Court, is to aid the students in the educational process, not in the religious instruction which is standard to a parochial curriculum.

Almost in the same breath the Court, by an 8-1 vote, upheld the right of a taxpayer to challenge the legality of the 1965 Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

It did not pass on the validity of this federal aid program. This part of the suit was referred back to the trial court for hearing on its merits.

It did, though, shatter a 1923 precedent which had said a taxpayer's interest in the spending of tax money is too remote to permit him to challenge the legislature's policy.

The 1923 rule had stood until Monday as an impenetrable barrier to all suits contesting Congressional appropriations brought by individuals asserting solely the interest of a federal taxpayer.

This has been the general rule of the state courts concerning local taxpayer suits and it is only a step for the Court to apply Monday's ruling to those actions.

The practical effect of the two decisions is to uphold one specific type of state aid to parochial schools and to open the door to unlimited legal challenges against other varieties now on the books.

What the Court is saying apparently is that each kind of state aid will be examined to determine how far it encroaches upon the Constitutional ban against religion established by Congressional fiat.

The existence of the parochial school is one of many arguments which have sharply divided Americans.

At one time many states prohibited them until a test case before the Supreme Court eliminated the ban as an undue restriction upon the freedom of worship. The Court did reserve to the states the right to insist that the purely educational standards in the parochial school meet a norm established for the public system.

The debate has revived in this generation for a different reason.

The parochial schools, for the most part, are up the same financial tree as the public institutions. Many religious orders consequently are pushing a fairness doctrine which holds that since a parochial school lightens the educational load on the public system it is only common sense for the former to be helped in some degree by public funds.

Many public school districts throughout the U.S., including ones in this area, unobtrusively slipped into a kind of arrangement along that line years ago. Busing is the most noticeable example. Sharing athletic facilities is another. The school lunch plan is Uncle Sam's better known participation.

Last year the Michigan legislature enacted a scholarship subsidy for college students based on their economic condition but without regard to the school of their attendance.

Since the grant is handed to the student as an individual and not distributed to a particular church school, the assumption has been this would not run afoul of the First Amendment.

Another argument raised within the legislature for the college grant is that the subsidy is extended to a person who wishes to enlarge his education beyond the bare legal minimum of attendance in some school either until age 16 or the 12th grade. Should the subsidy be given to a secondary school student, goes this reasoning, then it would be passing out public funds to persons upon whom the law lays a duty to perform; and for that reason the First Amendment in all likelihood would strike down the student subsidy.

Thus far, no court test has been raised against the collegiate subsidy and from all accounts it is working satisfactorily for the purpose to which it is intended.

The New York textbook loan plan, thus, is the nearest approach to what the financially beleaguered parochial school authorities have in mind at this time.

Textbooks are a small item in a school's budget.

It is the cost of facilities and, more importantly, the operational expense, that turns grey the hair on a school trustee's head.

What the Court will say if and when a test case arises on the big ticket items is hard to say.

The textbook loan case can be read in different directions.

It is a precedent for going all the way, yet the decision is confined to a loan of public property of comparatively insignificant value. A public grant for buildings or teacher salaries is not only substantial in price, but an outright passing of title to public funds to private sources.

It has been our feeling ever since the parochial school aid question came into prominence a few years ago that the aid is of less argumentative value than the abuse of it.

This is the difficulty of drafting an aid formula to help an existing parochial system which is performing a good job and to keep the chiselers from the trough. In other words, if assistance is given to the schools which will employ it properly, how can it be kept from someone setting up a private school for his own pocketbook?

The experience with the educational racketeers who set up shop after World War II to make a fast buck from the VA educational program is the real bigness, in our mind, in the present dilemma.

The men of Brazil's Kraho Indian tribe believe that the larger the disk they wear in their ears, the greater their success with the girls. Some men wear plugs the size of teacups, the National Geographic says.

American airmen, carrying out a series of furious bombing and strafing raids on the enemy's bases and Chinese commandos, striking co-ordinated blows at his rear, have fashioned new successes along the upper Yangtze front of the Chinese theater. Chunking dispatches reported today.

More than 100 bombs were dropped on the big Japanese airfield at Sanchang in Kiangsi province, a supply link with the enemy's most advanced front in Central China. Gasoline dumps were set afire and runways were torn up as the American Mitchells and Warhawks swept over the field and escaped, without loss, to their bases. Nanchang is the most important Japanese air base between Shanghai and Hankow.

He has two nicknames that stick with him — one was for his hair and the other for the way he moved with a football cradled in his arm. He is Harold (Red) Grange, the "Ghost."

When he was 5 years old, he had a dog named Jack, so the story goes, and he chased the dog all over the backyard. Years later, Grange said: "Jack was the greatest open field runner I ever saw. I learned things from Jack I never forgot."

Football fans won't forget Grange either, especially those who sat in the stands on an October afternoon in 1924 when his Illinois team went up against an unbeaten University of Michigan team.

The Ghost took the opening kickoff on his five-yard line and went 95 yards for touchdown number one. Minutes later, he went around end for 67 yards and number two. Before the period was out, he ran 56 yards for another.

Grange was just warming up, however. He went 45 yards up the middle for his fourth score, tossed a 12-yard touchdown pass and followed it with another aerial TD. He threw or ran all of Illinois' six touchdowns.

Grange had always been scrappy as a boy, but he came from hardy stock. He was born in 1903 in Forksville, Penna. When he was 5, his mother died and the family moved to Wheaton, Ill.

His exploits — and his number 77 — became a legend at Illinois. He later joined the professional Chicago Bears and became the game's first super star.

From 1926 through 1928 he played with the New York Yankees, then returned to the Bears in 1929. He made All-Pro in 1931 and, in 1932, led the Bears to a championship. In later years, he has been a sportscaster.

DR. COLEMAN .. And Speaking Of Your Health

After a recent gall bladder operation from which I am now completely recovered, I learned that my appendix had been taken out at the same time.

I had never had any pain or symptoms related to the appendix and wondered whether this was routine additional surgery. Can there be any bad effects of this, such as adhesions, that may cause trouble?

Mrs. R. B., Illinois

Dear Mr. B.: Dr. Coleman

Many surgeons believe and rightfully so that there is a great advantage in removing the appendix at the same time that they do other surgery within the abdomen. It is not uncommon for the appendix to be removed after a gall bladder operation. Women who have an operation for an ovarian condition will frequently have their appendix removed at the same time.

This is an excellent safeguard against the possibility of further surgery, should there be a flare-up of an inflammation or infection of the appendix.

This additional surgery is performed only when there is no gross evidence of infection in the abdomen. In the presence of infection of the gall bladder, the ovaries, or any other abdominal organ, the surgeon never does anything more than is absolutely necessary and will leave the appendix alone.

In your particular case, you can be certain that the removal of the appendix was a valuable contribution to you. Modern surgical techniques are so gentle and so rapid that there is little or no chance of adhesions following the removal of the appendix. This could be considered surgical lagniappe, or the surgical baker's dozen.

We have recently adopted a child who came to our home when she was six days old. She is now two years of age, happy, alert and intrinsically a part of our family, without any reservations. I am now pregnant and expect to give birth in two months after not having been able to conceive for eight years.

I am confused by the number of people who offer all kinds of advice as to whether to tell our first child that she is adopted.

Mrs. Y.O.H., Indiana

Dear Mrs. H.: It is astonishing how frequently women who cannot conceive become pregnant, shortly after the adoption of a child. It is readily explained as the result of relaxation and lack of tension about the fear of being sterile.

How to handle the adopted, or more correctly the adoptive, child is not very complicated. There is a single law of a good sound psychological attitude. The child must be told early, very early, that he has been adopted. To lie or to delay his knowledge of what adoption means is psychologically hazardous, because eventually someone, even in kindness, will tell him about it, confuse him, and induce the seed of emotional distress.

This information must come from you, the parents, constantly, while substantiating your love. When both children are grown, this knowledge should be shared by everyone in the family to avoid any possibility of prejudice in their relationship. Your physician can guide you in the many subtle problems that will arise. There are some excellent books written, both for the parents and the child, that will contribute valuable information. Friends are lovely, but cannot be depended on for advice in such delicate areas, unless they have had special training.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — Avoid antibiotic lozenges. They are trouble-makers.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

JAY BECKER Contract Bridge

Obviously the contract is in danger if all the cards lie badly for you — there may be no way to avoid the loss of a trump and two clubs — so the best you can do is prepare for the worst and hope your precautions pay off.

Accordingly, you cash the A-K of spades, lead a trump to the ace, ruff a diamond, and lead another trump toward the K-J. When West follows low, you are at the crossroads and must decide whether or not to finesse.

If you consider the matter fully, it is clear that the finesse is mandatory. You reason that West started with either two low hearts or three to the queen.

You don't know the actual position, but one thing is sure — if you finesse you are bound to make the contract; if you don't you are in danger of going down.

Presumably you cleared the spades and diamonds from both hands to prepare for this very situation. If you lose the trump finesse to East, he will have to return a club, and all you need do is finesse the ten to insure the contract. West wins, but no matter what he returns you have the rest of the tricks.

If the trump finesse wins, you automatically have ten tricks and can then pat yourself on the back for having taken the right view of the hand.

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

The good book tells you to play for the drop rather than finesse when you are missing four to the queen of a suit, and also tells you to take two finesses when you have the A-J-10 facing several small.

But both rules are bromides you should feel free to use or not, depending upon the prevailing circumstances.

Let's say you're declarer at four hearts and West leads a diamond. East takes the ace and returns a diamond which you win with the king.

BENNET CERF Try And Stop Me

One of the late James Thurber's funniest stories concerns his grandfather, who fought as many as a dozen Indians bare-handed — to hear him tell it — and vanquished them all. On his deathbed, he was asked by his minister, "Have you forgiven all your enemies?" "Haven't got any," maintained the old man. "Remarkable," enthused the minister, "but how did a red-blooded, two-fisted battler like you go through life without making any enemies?" "It was easy," Thurber's grandpop explained casually, "I shot 'em."

Possibly the unluckiest sap in the racetrack set this year was brought to light by sports expert Bill Slocum recently. He began the season with a hefty bankroll, but frittered it away with crazy long-shot bets until, with only the ninth and final race of a card at Aqueduct left, he was down to an even five spot. If he risked it all on a 40 to 1 nag that had struck his fancy, and lost — he'd have to walk all the way back to Manhattan — and it was setting chillier by the moment.

Well, he bet the five bucks, he lost, and started the long, long walk home. Footsore after ninety minutes of trudging he discovered his luck was even worse than he'd thought. He was walking the wrong way.

Mrs. Mandell was used to seeing antique films on the late, late TV programs, but one popped up that set a new low. "That picture is so old," she told her husband, "that we saw it together way back when you used to take me out!"

Republicans Vote More Than Dems

Scientists Offer Theory At Dinner Hosted By Paper

There are more Democrats than Republicans in the U.S. but Republicans vote more often . . . Memory retention experiments with goldfish tend to reinforce the theory that the trend to treat mental disorders will vastly expand . . .

These were theories advanced here last night by two University of Michigan scientists.

They were speaking to area newsmen and Berrien and Cass county college officials at an informal session designed to improve communications between scientists and media. The dinner lecture was held at Berrien Springs Country club and hosted by this newspaper.

Cleland Wyllie, director of media relations at the University of Michigan, told of the importance of bringing the scientist closer to the people in this age of science.

DRUGS FOR BRAIN
Dr. Bernard Agranoff, professor in the department of biological chemistry in the U-M medical school, traced the exacting research work in laboratories to unlock the secrets of the brain.

Tests on the effect of the drug purumycin on memory processes of goldfish can give the scientists extensive knowledge on preparing drugs to help humans.

If 20 years ago anyone had suggested that half of the people in mental hospitals could be sent home by prescribing certain drugs the idea would have been considered impractical, he said.

But with a better understanding of the composition of living cells and the chemical processes which permit an organism to function normally this is definitely an established trend.

Biochemical and biophysical data is being handled by computers. With both slides and moving pictures, Dr. Agranoff took his listeners into the university laboratories for a close look at their research projects.

VOTERS SURVEYED
The Survey Research Center, outlined by Dr. John P. Robinson, has by sampling select voters from all parts of the nation determined that 42 percent of the electorate vote for group benefits which he explained as a farmer's party or a workingman's party or a bus-

Widening 'Officially' Completed

Niles Ave. Job Finally Finished

Official completion of a half-million dollar widening of Niles avenue in St. Joseph was noted by the state highway department quietly today in sharp contrast to the furore last August when the paving was completed.

Workers for Cross and White of Grand Rapids have finished sodding and in some places seeding the tree lawn as the final act. They have cleaned up their construction headquarters site at Niles avenue, and Lester street.

Cross and White were penalized $900 for failing to have the highway open to through traffic by the contract date of Oct. 31. The state highway department exacted a penalty of $150 per day for six days. The street was opened Nov. 2 but not to contract specifications until Nov. 20. Weather conditions were responsible for part of the delay. No other sanctions against the contractor were imposed by the highway department.

Indiana and Michigan Electric Co. and Michigan Bell Telephone workers have installed new street lights and buried telephone cable along that stretch of Niles avenue that was widened where scores of large trees were removed.

PATROL STREET
St. Joseph police periodically post patrol cars along the newly widened street in an attempt to keep motorists within the 30-35 mile per hour speed limit.

Police said speeding is a problem on the street which has five lanes from Whittlesey to the South City limits.

The no parking ban, however, has been generally accepted by motorists and police said they have been issuing fewer and fewer parking violation tickets.

Merchants have been developing off-street parking facilities. The highway department has turned a deaf ear to pleas by Niles avenue merchants to ease the no-parking ban.

Last August, after Niles avenue had been torn up since March, 1967 merchants in the

John Cruce Honored By Jaycees

Receives Key Man, Other Awards

John Cruce, 560 West May street, Benton Harbor, has received the Key Man award of the Twin Cities Area Jaycees.

The Key Man award is the highest award for performance that a Jaycee can receive during the year. Cruce also received the SPOKE of the year and Sparkplug of the year awards.

The first was given for outstanding performance during his first year as a Jaycee. The Sparkplug award was for outstanding performance after completing his first year as a Jaycee. At the Michigan Jaycee State convention held in Grand Rapids last month, Cruce was named one of Michigan's top five first-year Jaycees.

At 23, he is the youngest and also the first Jaycee ever to win all three awards in a single year in local chapter history.

Other award winners were Robert Cheek, Jaycee of the Year, for his contributions and performance as secretary, and Jay Sterling received the Presidential Award of Honor for serving as general chairman of the Michigan Jaycee Summer State meeting, hosted by the local chapter last August in the Twin Cities.

The Model United Nations program committee comprised of Thomas Summers, Robert Cox, Robert Griese and Gordon Brown was named Committee of the Year and certificates of merit were awarded to: Thomas Johnstone, chairman of Radio Day, and William Perry for his efforts in the area of water pollution and Curtis Meschke of the YMCA for his efforts in the Model U.N. program.

100 Homes On 21 Acres At Crystal

Benton Planners Will Get Request For Rezoning Area

The Benton township planning commission tonight will hear a proposal from Homes for Berrien County Families, Inc., for the rezoning of 21 acres along Crystal avenue for the construction of 100 homes.

Homes for Berrien County Families, Inc., was created last year by the Berrien County Council of Churches to provide housing for "in between" families — those with incomes too high for public housing and too low for decent private housing.

The zoning change is sought because the land between Napier and Empire avenues presently is zoned single family residential. It is the same site proposed last year for a new Benton Harbor junior high school which was defeated in a bond election.

Notice of the pending development was presented last night to the Benton Harbor board of education. Developers of such housing projects are required to notify school officials because of the impact on enrollments.

Oliver Rector, member-elect of the board of education and an incumbent member of the township planning commission, said he wished they would look to other than the Benton Harbor school district as the site for the housing.

The corporation plans to obtain federally-guaranteed financing for the project.

State Tax Deadline Is Extended

Quarterly Payment Notices Are Late

The deadline for filing state income tax quarterly payments will be extended. The payments were scheduled due Saturday, June 15, but will be delayed because the billing notices sent from the state to the taxpayer are not printed.

The payments are on estimation of income for 1968 and apply only to those who will owe the state at least $100 in income tax and are not covered by withholding.

When the notices arrive within a week or two, they will be accompanied by a statement that payments can be made within 10 days of receipt without interest.

Reason for delay of the billing notices is that they are printed on the same machine which turns out refund checks, and the machine has been too busy with refunds, according to the income tax section of the revenue division of the Michigan Department of Treasury.

REV. CLETUS ROSE

SJ Catholic Pastor Will Be Honored

Appreciation Night June 21

The pastor of St. Joseph Catholic church, St. Joseph, the Rev. Cletus Rose, will be guest of honor at "pastor appreciation" night Friday, June 21. Wallace Warsaw, Grand Knight of St. Joseph Council No. 1441, Knights of Columbus, announced today.

The dinner, which will be held in the social hall of the school, is meant to be an opportunity for the people of the parish and friends of St. Joseph church to meet with the pastor and acknowledge his efforts and hard work on behalf of the parish since coming here in August of 1966 and also recognize his 40th anniversary of priestly service, Warsaw said.

Dinner is at 6:30 p.m. and cost is $2.50 per person. Tickets are available through members of the Knights of Columbus and at the rectory office and will be available after Masses on Sunday, June 16, at the door of the church.

NAACP Will Raise Funds Here

Events In Memory Of Medgar Evers

The Benton Harbor branch of the NAACP is holding a series of fund raising affairs this weekend, in memory of civil rights leader Medgar Evers, who was killed June 12, 1963, in Mississippi. Mrs. Mary De Foe, secretary of the local branch announced.

Tomorrow, there will be a youth dance at Seely McCord school from 8 to 11 p.m. On Saturday, an all-day car wash will be held at the Pure Oil station, corner of Fair avenue and Main street and a rummage sale also will take place at the Sheeley Roller Rink, corner of Highland avenue and Second street.

On Sunday, the local NAACP calls on community churches to hold a brief memorial service in memory of Evers and others who have advanced the cause of civil rights.

"We call on the churches of our community to remember all of these men who died as a result of their courageous labors in the cause of full freedom," Mrs. De Foe said.

"We realize however, that the most lasting monument we can bestow on such men as Medgar Evers, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the Rev. George W. Lee, Harry T. Moore, Vernon Dahmer, and Walrus Jackson, must be built with continuing day to day deeds of dedication by those of us who remain."

Sees Father Retire

LAWRENCE — Mr. and Mrs. Low Bowen and family recently attended a retirement service for Bowen's father, the Rev. Milford Bowen at the Convict Union church at Battle Creek. The Rev. Bowen is retiring after 42 years in the ministry. He served as pastor of the Lawrence United Methodist church for nine years leaving in 1958.

High School Security Tightened

Communications System Purchased By BH Board

Benton Harbor board of education last night acted to tighten security at senior high school by voting to get bids on a two-way communications system.

Cost of the system is estimated at $25,000. It will provide instant communication between 100 locations in the building and the principal's office. The present system is one-way from the principal's office and can't reach all sections of the building at the same time.

The old equipment will be installed at another school in the district. The board also voted to seek bids for painting "as many buildings as possible" for up to $50,000.

Money available for repairs and improvements this year will total an estimated $244,000 in tax receipts, plus $40,000 in cash on hand and transfer of funds from the former Hull district.

The board already is committed to spending $125,000 for repairs to the high school.

TEACHING VACANCIES
Robert Payne, assistant superintendent for personnel, presented a list of 51 teacher resignations and said at the moment there are 80 vacancies to fill.

Twenty-three vacancies exist at schools in predominantly Negro neighborhoods—Henry C. Morton, Calvin Britain and Bard. Payne said upper elementary, industrial arts and mathematics are the hardest to fill.

He reported that nine faculty members with 30 1/2 years total experience have retired. They are Mrs. Gertrude Austin, Mrs. Helen Buchanan, Donald Davenport, Miss Ellen Finley, Mrs. Gladys Fletcher, Clarence Foster, Mrs. Eva Haring, Mrs. Frances Laitly and Mrs. Thelma Ziegler.

It was the final regular board meeting for President Clinton Raines who did not seek re-election because he wants to spend more time with his family. Secretary Lester Page complimented Raines for level-headed leadership and his service to education before and after consolidation.

OTHER BOARD ACTION
Approval of the five-mill tax

SCHOLARSHIP: Daniel McKinley, son of Mrs. Marilyn McKinley, 2514 State street, St. Joseph, has been awarded a scholarship and a grant totaling $2,300 to the University of Chicago where he will major in humanities. The scholarship is renewable. He is a graduate of the 1968 class of St. Joseph Catholic high school where he has been active in forensics and debating and on the student council. He served on the Pony Express and was a member of the Chess club. He also was class president the latter three years of high school.

increase Monday created 10 new teaching positions for music, physical education and art. Payne said it is questionable if the district can find the required number of art teachers, but he expects no difficulty in the other two subjects.

In other business, the board: • Granted permission for leasing of the former Social Security office as quarters for the preschool program which has been located in two churches. The new location will enable the program to expand from 80 to 120 students. The entire program is federally-financed.

• Approved transfer of the Edward Lull, Jr., property on Territorial road from the Benton Harbor district to Coloma. The Coloma bus stop is closer to the home than the Benton Harbor bus stop.

• Authorized new text books for U.S. history and psychology at senior high. Donald McAlvey, assistant superintendent for personnel said the history texts, incorporate minority groups into the mainstream of American life.

• Voted to obtain $200,000 in operating funds, either as an advance on state aid or by borrowing.

PAW PAW SCHOOLS MILLAGE VOTE JULY 29

Amount Of
Levy Still
Not SettledAt Least Four
Mills Needed
To Break Even

PAW PAW—Paw Paw school district residents will vote on an operating millage proposition on July 29.

Although the number of mills is yet to be determined, School Superintendent Dan McConnell reported last night that at least 4 mills extra would be needed just to break even. He said this would not handle any salary increase for teachers. Faculty contract negotiations are being negotiated now.

The board of education scheduled the special election last night. Board members were reminded by the superintendent that their district operates on only 18.18 mills, compared to some districts operating on up to 31 mills. Supt. McConnell also reminded that the Paw Paw district now spends about $462 per child, the third lowest of all school districts in Van Buren county.

The board last night also scheduled a special meeting with the district's architects for 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday.

CITIZENS GROUP

This followed acceptance of a citizens' advisory committee report on plant needs, which included recommendations for two bond issues.

John Thomas, a committee member, told the board the bond issues should include financing for construction of a middle school, followed by replacement of the Michigan avenue school, within the next decade. Middle schools, a relatively new concept, house grades six through eight. The traditional junior high schools house grades seven through nine.

The Michigan avenue school early this year was closed when structural defects were discovered. Corrections were made and the building is being used now.

The board thanked the citizens group for its recommendations and presumably will act on bonding later. Commenting on current operating millage, McConnell said it includes 9.5 voted mills and 8.68 mills received from the Van Buren County Tax Allocation board.

GET CERTIFICATES

The board authorized McConnell to issue G.E.D. certificates to those adults without regular high school diplomas who had completed the necessary studies and passed the required tests. About 50 persons were involved, according to McConnell.

Mrs. Leona Washburn gave a report on the special Title I program being conducted in the Paw Paw schools, which aids potential dropouts or children having difficulty with regularly scheduled studies. Tests indicate some of these students jump nearly two years in achievement, she said.

Board members authorized the advance of funds to buy a universal weight machine for the school, as requested by the All-Sports Club. The money will be paid back to the school by means of money-raising activities by the club.

The resignation of Carol Archambault, mathematics teacher, was accepted, and Mrs. Penelope McNeill was granted a maternity leave of absence.
